Sending Mills to the Far East.

A steamer is en route from Japan to take on the last of the machinery made by the Honolula iron works for the sugar mills, turned out since February of last year, for a Fermusa plantation. The machinery is now assembled at the excented by the local firm. The turning out of these two mills is unique in engineering etreles. C. Hedemann, manager of the fron works, got an order for the mills in Tokio on March 27, 1909. Orders for the material March 27, 1909. Orders for the material could not be placed in New York before May, and work did not start on the mills, therefore, until that month. All of that machinery, aggregating a total of $1,000,000, save a number of important parts which were made in Honolulu, was manufactured in the east. The first shipment left New York in October and the second last December. The final shipment will be made on the Japanese steamer which is expected

Japanese steamer which is expected here shortly.

The macchinery shipped from New York was manufactured in New York, Boston, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Buffalo, St. Louis and New Orleans. The machinery was all assembled and shipped from New York. The work was watched by the New York representative of the Honolulu iron works. He had to make visits to the various cities.

tive of the Honolulu iron works. He had to make visits to the various cities mentioned to assemble the stuff.

These total shipments represent one complete sugar factory to manufacture semi-refined sugar for distribution in Formosa. The other one is an addition to one built for Formosa two years ago. The addition brings this factory up to a capacity of 2800 tons of cane per day.

The Honolulu iron works has also a contract to deliver a sugar factory for semi-refined sugar for the Mindoro Sugar Company, a new company formed by prominent capitalists in the sugar world, but not of the sugar trust. The factory will be similar to the old one of the Honolulu plantation before they got their refining plant. This mill will be finished and shipped the latter part of this year. It will have a capacity of 1000 tons daily, and will be arranged so that additions can be made to make

The Honolulu iron works has a full gang of men working on the Mindoro contract.

jag, was Exhibit B.

However, the minor who bought the booze testified that he had represented himself as being twenty-one years of age, and as he looked the part, the case was not bad against the saloon. But the booze buyer may find himself in trouble, as the law provides a penalty for a minor misrepresenting his age for the purpose of buying liquor.

Convincing Evidence. The Sunrise saloon was in trouble because, according to the accusation of Inspector Fennell, it has been selling liquor to intoxicated persons. Fennell stated that several times he has visited the saloon and found drunken men drinking in the place. The Jap-anese proprietor, through an interpreter, made a long statement, the gist of which was that Fennell must be mistaken, because he himself had inquired of his employes whether or not they had violated the law and they said #### they had not. Rather Embarrassing.

Ried of the Pacific Saloon was up on a similar charge, which he vehe-mently denied. Commissioner Watkins called his attention to the fact that a short time ago he himself visited the saloon and found it full of noisy drunks who were imbibing more of the juice that cheers and intoxicates. Ried was somewhat confused but stack to his assertion that he was complying with the law on all occasions.

Sword of Damocies.

The culprits were dismissed while the board talked matters over, and later they were recalled and informed that nothing would be done for the present, but that the matter might come up again next June when the saloon licenses expire.

Sylvester of Hauula presented a peti-tion for a license to run a saloon, but it was referred back because he did not have enough names on the petition.

But the Japanese don't care. They will get one dollar and a half a day for every day they are detained as witnesses, and they couldn't get one dollar and a half a day killing birds on Laysan and Lysianski, not to speak of not being able on those rocky islets to account such comfortable quarters. to occupy such comfortable quarters as will be offered them by High Sheriff Henry.

So far as is known, no indictment has yet been found against Schlemmer, but there is little doubt that a serious charge will be laid against him and that charge will be laid against him and that he will have to fight in the courts for his liberty.

Smuggling Case Still On.

Before Commissioner Judd the hear-ing of the smuggling case in which Leong Ning is the defendant was con-tinued. T. M. Harrison and Willia Sims are still appearing as attorneys for the defendant.
